

Moss agate and rock crystal briolettes at Oberon & Caswell, AGTA booth No. 310.

Company owner Paul-Otto Caesar took thin slices of moss agate and sandwiched them between colorless rock crystal for an amplified appreciation of the agate. It's a labor-intensive process completed in Germany and in Asia that results in starting retail prices of $1,100 for a pair.

Material: Moss agate and colorless rock crystal briolettes held together by an optical epoxy

Origin: The rock crystal and moss agate are mined in Brazil, and cut and assembled in China and Germany

Treatment: Moss agate is color-treated, rock crystal is not

Retail Price: Suggested retail prices start at $1,100 for a pair